What is a Broker of Record and How Can it Help Me Save?

The broker of record letter (BOR) in insurance is a tool insurance agents and brokers utilize to assume the negotiation of your insurance account. Like any legal document, understanding the effects of the wording of the BOR can be challenging for the typical commercial insured. The BOR letter establishes a legal relationship between your entity, the broker and the insurer or insurers currently providing your insurance coverage.

Agent/Broker Change Request

Since a full submission constitutes a substantial amount of information about the insured, the carrier assumes the agent is acting as the insured's designated representative and the agent becomes the agent of record. If later, the insured wants to change agents, they can do so with an Agent of Record letter (AOR).
