Camouflage definition, the act, means, or result of obscuring things to deceive an enemy, as by painting or screening objects so that they are lost to view in the background, or by making up objects that from a distance have the appearance of fortifications, guns, roads, etc.: Was camouflage used extensively on fighter aircraft during World War I?

Camouflage | Definition of Camouflage at Dictionary.com

Camouflage is the use of any combination of materials, coloration, or illumination for concealment, either by making animals or objects hard to see (1), or by disguising them as something else (1).Examples include the leopard's spotted coat, the battledress of a modern soldier, and the leaf-mimic katydid's wings. A third approach, motion dazzle, confuses the observer with a conspicuous pattern ...

Camouflage - Wikipedia

Military camouflage is the use of camouflage by an armed force to protect personnel and equipment from observation by enemy forces. In practice, this means applying colour and materials to military equipment of all kinds, including vehicles, ships, aircraft, gun positions and battledress, either to conceal it from observation (1), or to make it appear as something else (1).

Military camouflage - Wikipedia

Camouflage, also called cryptic coloration, is a defense or tactic that organisms use to disguise their appearance, usually to blend in with their surroundings. Organisms use camouflage to mask their location, identity, and movement.This allows prey to avoid predators, and for predators to sneak up on prey. A species' camouflage depends on several factors.

Camouflage is a visual disguise.Without it, an animal would be recognised easily. If the natural colour of an animal makes it look like its surroundings, that is camouflage. A tiger's stripes in the long grass, and the battledress of a modern soldier are examples.. Camouflage is a form of deception.The word camouflage comes from the French word camoufler, which means "to disguise".
